

Get Assured Inc. Lead Development Audit and Tracking Plan

Prepared June 2, 2026 for Franz and Bon. Scope: website, public social profiles, lead tracking, analytics setup, and CRM/database review.

Core recommendation: Treat lead development as a measured funnel, not just a list of contacts. Bon should connect every source, ad, social profile, call, form, and message to one database record with source, status, next action, and outcome.

1. Current Snapshot

This captures what is visible from Get Assured's website and public social profiles. Verify these details with Bon before changing copy, ads, or CRM behavior.

Area	Visible signal	Lead development implication
Website	Mortgage-first homepage with Apply Now and Inquire Now.	Good for loan inquiries, but buyer/seller realtor lead paths should be more explicit.
Bon profile	Menardo Mendoza / Bon, Owner-Partner; 23 years of mortgage loan knowledge; mobile and email visible.	Strong differentiator: realtor guidance plus financing knowledge.
Facebook	207 followers, Burbank, Message CTA, phone/email/website visible, no Facebook rating yet.	Best current social audience; needs a pinned lead offer and review-building push.
Instagram	1 post, 0 followers, 0 following; company bio and website link.	Not currently a lead channel; either revive with reels or remove emphasis.
X/Twitter	1 post from 2022, 0 followers.	Low priority; use only if Bon will post consistently.
LinkedIn	11 followers, real estate company page, Burbank, 2-10 employees.	Useful for credibility and referral partners, not likely the first consumer lead channel.

Immediate trust issue: Contact details appear inconsistent across the website and social profiles, including email domains and office addresses. Standardize the public phone, email, address, license references, and preferred contact path before scaling ads.

2. Measurement Setup Bon Probably Needs

Bon mentioned he uses a database for leads, but the system and efficiency are unknown. Before buying more lead lists or increasing ad spend, confirm that the measurement layer is working.

Tracking item	Purpose	First check
Google Analytics 4	Measure website sessions, sources, landing pages, and conversions.	Is GA4 installed on all pages? Are form submits, calls, and outbound clicks tracked?
Google Search Console	See search terms, indexed pages, and local SEO opportunity.	Is the domain verified? Which queries already bring impressions?
Google Tag Manager	Manage GA4, Meta Pixel, LinkedIn Insight Tag, and event tracking cleanly.	Is GTM installed once, with documented tags and triggers?
Meta Pixel / Conversions API	Connect Facebook/Instagram ads to website actions.	Is the pixel firing on landing pages and conversion events?
LinkedIn Insight Tag	Useful if LinkedIn ads or referral/partner campaigns are used.	Install only if LinkedIn becomes an active channel.
UTM naming standard	Prevent lead sources from becoming messy or unknowable.	Use consistent source, medium, campaign, content, and term values.
Call tracking	Attribute phone leads to website, ads, Google Business Profile, and social.	Use trackable numbers or a call log field by source.

3. CRM / Lead Database Efficiency Review

Use this checklist with Bon to understand whether his existing lead database helps him close business or simply stores names.

Question	Why it matters	Answer / notes
What system is used?	A spreadsheet, CRM, LOS, email inbox, or ad platform all behave differently.
Does every lead have a source?	Without source attribution, Bon cannot know what to double down on.
Are buyer, seller, refinance, and mortgage-only leads separated?	Different lead types need different follow-up scripts and offers.

Is there a status pipeline?	Examples: New, Contacted, Appointment Set, Nurture, Won, Lost.
Is next follow-up date required?	A database without next action becomes a graveyard.
Are calls, texts, emails, and Facebook messages logged?	Lead quality depends on conversation history, not just contact info.
Can duplicates be detected?	Duplicate leads make reporting and follow-up unreliable.
Is response time tracked?	Fast response is often the difference between lead and appointment.
Are consent and communication preferences stored?	Important for compliant calling, texting, and email follow-up.

4. Weekly Lead Scorecard

Track these numbers weekly. The goal is not vanity traffic; the goal is qualified conversations, appointments, and closed transactions.

Metric	Target / direction	This week	Notes
Website sessions	Increase qualified local traffic
Top landing page	Know which page attracts leads
Form inquiries	Increase
Phone calls	Increase qualified calls
Facebook messages	Increase qualified messages
Appointments booked	Primary conversion metric
Cost per lead	Lower over time, but only for qualified leads
Cost per appointment	More useful than cost per raw lead
Lead-to-appointment rate	Improve with better offer and faster follow-up
Appointments-to-client rate	Measure sales quality and fit

5. Lead Source Experiments

Run one or two experiments at a time. Each experiment should have a clear offer, source, landing page, budget/timebox, and success measure.

Experiment	Offer	How to measure
Facebook / Instagram lead form	Free home value estimate or buyer affordability call.	Lead quality, appointment rate, cost per appointment.
Google Business Profile	Call or message for Burbank / San Fernando Valley real estate help.	Calls, direction requests, website clicks, reviews.
Local SEO pages	Burbank realtor, first-time buyer, home value, mortgage + realtor help.	Search impressions, clicks, form submissions.
Open house sign-in	QR form with buyer timeline and pre-approval question.	Visitor-to-follow-up rate and appointments booked.
Referral partners	Co-branded buyer/seller guidance for CPAs, attorneys, contractors, churches, and community groups.	Introductions, calls booked, closed referrals.
First-time buyer workshop	30-minute Zoom or in-person session.	Registrations, attendance, consultations booked.

6. Recommended 30-Day Action Plan

1. Standardize contact information across website, Facebook, Instagram, X, LinkedIn, Google Business Profile, and email signatures.
2. Confirm which lead database Bon uses and whether every record has source, status, next action, and follow-up date.
3. Install or verify GA4, Google Search Console, Google Tag Manager, Meta Pixel, and conversion tracking.
4. Create one buyer landing page and one seller/home-value landing page.
5. Pin a Facebook post offering a free buyer or seller consultation.
6. Ask past clients for reviews on Google and Facebook.
7. Run one small Facebook lead campaign and one Google Business/local SEO push for two weeks.
8. Review the weekly scorecard and keep only the sources producing qualified conversations.

7. Change Log Template

8. Questions To Ask Bon

- Which lead database or CRM are you using today?
- How do leads enter the system: website form, Facebook, phone, email, manual entry, Zillow, referrals, or open houses?
- How quickly do you usually respond to new leads?
- Do you know which source produced your last five serious clients?
- Do you separate buyer, seller, refinance, and mortgage-only leads?
- Do you have a written follow-up cadence for new leads?
- Are paid ads currently connected to a landing page, Meta Pixel, and conversion event?

9. Compliance And List-Building Guardrail

Avoid relying on random purchased consumer lists as the primary strategy. For email, calls, texts, and housing-related ads, Bon should confirm consent, opt-out handling, advertising rules, broker requirements, and applicable real estate marketing restrictions. The better path is to build first-party leads through forms, calls, messages, open houses, referrals, workshops, reviews, and clearly tracked ads.

Bottom line: Before spending more on lead lists or ads, Bon should make sure his current lead database can answer three questions: Where did the lead come from? What is the next action? Did the lead become an appointment or client?
